Objectives

At the end of this conference participants will be able to:

- Describe the public health impact of addiction and the response of how Kentucky and communities are dealing with the opioid epidemic.
- Increase the understanding of how stigma or bias effects an individual and confronting and treating the harmful effects of stigma.
- Increase knowledge of the rural community opioid response from the perspective of: emergency medical services, law enforcement, medical services, policy development, and public health.
- Increase knowledge of Neonatal Abstinence Syndrome (NAS) and increase the capacity of community stakeholders to establish a collaborative, innovative, and integrated approach to address NAS.
- Increase knowledge of appropriate techniques for discharging infants hospitalized with NAS and non-pharmacological means to care for babies at home with NAS.
- Provide an overview of Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) and developing protective factors to promote community and family resilience.
- Increase knowledge of medication assisted treatment (MAT) to treat opioid addiction.
